THE FLOOR COMPLETED.

And the L. & N. Railroad Bridge Will Be Ready for Travel Monday.

The floor of the railroad bridge was about completed yesterday, the finishing touches will be put on to-day, and the bridge will probably be thrown open for travel Monday. The floor is a good substantial one and a walk way has been added to the lower side of the bridge so that pedestrians can cross at the same time trains are going over. The walk ways approaching the bridge are also being repaired and the people living west of the river have been given a first class means of ingress and egress to and from this city. As to whether the bridge will be made a free one, the following from the Argus of this week is the only information obtainable:

The committee appointed to visit Louisville and confer with President M. H. Smith, of the Louisville & Nashville railroad, have performed their duty. The proposition of the company is as follows:

If you see it here it's so

HARTSTEIN'S

NO. 315 MAIN STREET, NEAR STATE NATIONAL BANK.

L. & N. R. R. Co.,

PRESIDENT'S OFFICE,

LOUISVILLE, Oct. 21, 1893.

Messrs. Pat McDonald and J. H. Mastin, committee, Frankfort, Ky.:

GENTLEMEN:—Referring to our interview yesterday, when you asked me to name the conditions under which the L. & N. R. R. Co. would permit the use of its bridge by the people of the county of Franklin for the passage of persons and vehicles moved by animal power, I beg leave to propose that the L. & N. R. R. Co., while it insists that it is not legally bound to keep the bridge open for public use, or for the use of L. A. Thomas or any of his vendees, will complete the bridge for the passage of its trains and for the passage of persons and vehicles moved by animal power, and will maintain the bridge and roadway, providing the county of Franklin will pay the cost of maintaining competent and reliable watchmen, with authority to regulate the movement of persons and animals, and vehicles moved by animal power, over the bridge, so as not in any way to interfere with the movement of trains, and will enter into an obligation to protect the company from any loss or expense that may result from injury to persons or property by its trains, or that may result from the use of the bridge. The arrangement to continue in effect for three years, and thereafter subject to abrogation by twelve months' written notice from either party to the other.

Yours truly,

M. H. SMITH,

President.

The committee answered stating that they nor the Fiscal Court had the power to protect the company from loss for injury to persons or property, and that such an agreement, would be void. They requested the company to modify the proposition in this respect, and to state the number of watchmen necessary, and the pay required, so that the Court of Claims could know all the expense attached to such an agreement, if entered into.

There is a Best

In everything. In Ointments, Dr. Hale's Household Ointment stands at the head. It is effecting more wonderful cures and giving greater satisfaction than any other remedy in the world. For cuts, bruises, burns, sprains, frostbite, chilblains, chapped hands and lips, eczema, salt rheum, piles, &c., it has no equal. We claim great things for it and guarantee what we claim. It is the great pain and skin cure. Put up in 25 and 50c boxes. Large size cheapest. For sale by PHIL. CARPENTER, druggist.

Got There at Last.

Henry Rose, who passed a worthless check on Messrs. Crutcher & Starks and stole an overcoat from the Kenyon Hotel about a year ago, for which rascality he escaped being sent to the penitentiary upon a technicality, was sent to that institution by the Fayette Circuit Court last week to serve a term of two years for grand larceny. He is a brother of the notorious Mrs. Rodes Thompson.

It Should be in Every Household.

J. B. Wilson, 371 Clay St., Sharpesburg, Pa., says he will not be without Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, that it cured his wife who was threatened with Pneumonia after an attack of "LaGrippe" when various other remedies and several physicians had done her no good. Robert Barker, of Cooksport, Pa., claims Dr. King's New Discovery has done him more good than anything he ever used for lung trouble. "I feel like it. Try it." Free trial bottle at P. H. Carpenter's Drug Store. Large bottles, 50c. and $1.00.

Connell Proceedings.

Friday, October 21, 1893.

All the members of the council were present except councilman Gray.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved.

A communication was received from Mayor Tobin, nominating Messrs. H. H. Watson and H. B. O'Donnell as the new Commissioners of the Sinking Fund. (The board in the future will be composed of the Mayor and two citizens, who will serve for four years.)

Petition of M. W. Smith, for a meat store license on Wilkinson street. Referred to license committee.

Petition of Lillian Herancourt, asking a rebate on taxes. Referred to finance committee.

Petition of Mrs. C. Herancourt, asking a rebate on taxes. Referred to finance committee.

A letter was read addressed to the Mayor, from the King Bridge Company, acknowledging the receipt of check for their estimate on the bridge work for the month of September.

An invitation was received from the Chicago Board of Trade, requesting the presence of the Mayor and council at Chicago on the 28th inst., as their guests. The clerk was ordered to acknowledge receipt of same.

T. G. Daily's petition for saloon license, was read a second time and passed.

Mr. Ellwanger offered a resolution allowing the Street Railway Company the right to furnish electricity for heating and power to all who may desire it.

On motion of Mr. Watson, it was referred back to the committee, to be reported at the next meeting.

Twenty-six coupons of the first issue of the bridge bonds that had been sold, were burned by the chairman of the finance committee.

The Mayor was directed to advertise for bids for paving and guttering on Wilkinson and Mero streets, and on the South Side.

The City Engineer was directed to make grade on the east side of Wilkinson street, from Mero to Hill street, and report same to next meeting of the council.

The election ordinance was then taken up and the salaries of the following officers fixed, viz:

Mayor's salary	$1,000
Police Judge's salary	1,000
City Attorney's salary	300
City Clerk's salary	1,200
City Treasurer's salary	200
City Assessor's salary	300

The further consideration of the election ordinance was then postponed until next Friday night, and the matter of City Tax Collector's salary was referred to the finance committee to be reported back to the council.

The council then adjourned until next last night.

O. N. Rogers,

Of Adams, N. Y., ate nothing but dry bread for three years on account of that terrible disease Dyspepsia. He states that he was entirely cured by Dr. Hale's Household Tea and can now eat anything like it. This great medicine known is sold at 25 and 50 cents per package at CARPENTER'S drug store.

The Manual Training School.

The building erected upon the grounds of the White Public School for the use of the Manual Training class has been completed, and at certain hours every day each of the grades, from the highest down to the sixth, repair there to receive instruction from Prof. Robbins. The hours are so arranged that one grade follows another in succession so that the Professor has to be in the shop every hour during school time, except three hours each week, which he devotes to lectures and instruction to the smaller grades. Although this department has been established but one month, the scholars are becoming greatly interested and are showing marked improvement, especially in their drawing. Every Tuesday after noon, from 3 until 5, Prof. Robbins gives instructions to the entire corps of teachers. They are now engaged in learning perspective drawing, and in the future are expected to use the knowledge thus received in instructing their grades. So far as it has been tried the manual training department has proven to be quite a success, and the trustees and patrons are highly gratified with it.

Prof. Robbins is a genial gentleman and thoroughly qualified for the position to which he has been called.

Sold Her Interest.

Mrs. Wickliffe Chapman has sold her interest in the drug store of Chapman & Williams to Mr. John W. R. Williams, who will continue the business at the same stand on Main street.

Checked the progress of Consumption. It's cured, too, if it's taken in time. What is needed is the one unfailing remedy for Scrofula in all its forms—for one of those forms (Lung-Scrofula) is Consumption.

From beginning to end, the remedy is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It's the most potent blood-cleanser, strength-restorer, and flesh-builder known to medical science. Consumption, and every form of Scrofula and blood-taint, all yield to it. For Weak Lungs, Spitting of Blood, Bronchitis, Asthma, and all severe, lingering Coughs, it's an unequalled remedy—and the only one for the Blood and Lungs that's guaranteed. If it doesn't benefit or cure, in every case, you have your money back.

Chagne of Firm.

In the settlement of the affairs of the firm of Day & Haff, Mrs. Haff bought the interest of Mr. Day in the grocery in this city and he purchased her interest in the distillery property in Anderson county, but they will still continue to own the stock of whisky on hand jointly. Mrs. Haff has turned the grocery over to Mr. Frank S. Haff, her brother-in-law, who will continue to conduct the business for her.

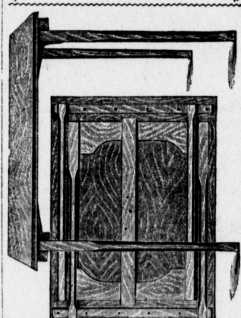

Catarrh Can't be Cured

With local applications, as they cannot reach the seat of the disease, Catarrh is a blood or constitutional disease, and in order to cure it you have to take internal remedies. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces. It was prescribed by one of the best physicians in this country for years, and is a regular prescription. It is composed of the best tonics known, combined with the best blood purifiers, acting directly on the mucous surface. The perfect combination of the two ingredients is what produces such wonderful results in curing catarrh. Send for testimonials.

Death of a Prominent Mississippian.

The many friends made by Miss Aida Poindeux during her visit here last fall and winter, will regret to learn of the death of her father, which sad event occurred while she and her sister were absent from home on a visit to the World's Fair. The following notice of his death, clipped from the Delta Flag, of Greenwood, Mississippi, gives an idea of the estimation in which he was held by the community in which he lived:

All that remains of the once noble man, the loved husband, father and friend now lay in the grave. On Oct. 11th this true man, and splendid citizen of Leflore county, Captain W. G. Poindeux, died a victim to the fatal disease Hematuria, being sick only a few days. His remains were brought to Greenwood and interred in the cemetery. Funeral from the residence of Hon. L. P. Yerger. The stores, banks, etc., closed in honor of the deceased citizen. We will give a more extended notice next week.

Supper and Dance.

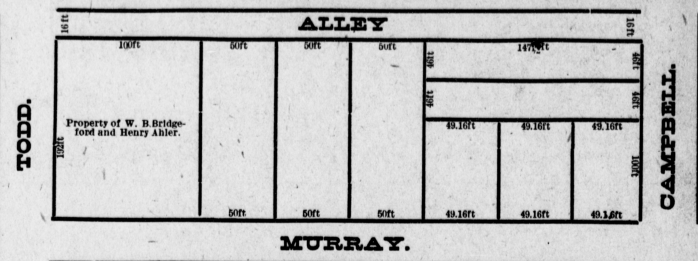

The Women's Relief Corps of the Grand Army of the Republic will give a supper and dance at Sower & Ahler's Hall on Thursday evening, November 2d—the supper from 6 to 9 and the dance from 9 until 12. The object is to raise funds for the treasury of the corps and the entertainment should be liberally patronized, as the organization is purely a benevolent one. Contribute something even if you don't attend.

That Joyful Feeling.

With the exhilarating sense of renewed health and strength and internal cleanliness, which follows the use of Syrup of Figs, is unknown to the few who have not progressed beyond the old time medicines and the cheap substitutes sometimes offered but never accepted by the well informed.

Our market this week has shown a little more strength on the very common grades of barley such as are selling below $7.00 per hundred. Otherwise there has been no change in the situation on barley. The sales of the week embraced several hogheads of the new barley crop—one hoghead selling as high as $12.75 per hundred. The crop may now be said to be practically in the barns and it varies very much in quality, a greater part of the crop, however, promises to be under the average in quality.

Manual Training.

We have said that manual training is the complement of the public schools. A complement is that which fills up, completes, supplies a deficiency.

The human being is three-sided, has a tripartite nature and is therefore susceptible to triple cultivation. He is possessed of heart, head and hand, each of which demands cultivation. The cultivation of the heart should devolve chiefly upon the family and the church. The school should not fail to impart moral lessons whenever the opportunity offers. Its principal work, however, is to cultivate the head. In the past the public school has directed its efforts principally toward intellectual and moral training, almost entirely ignoring the training of the hand. To-day, in order to do justice to the triple nature of the child, the school provides hand training by introducing labor as an educational factor.

For all the wants of man nature provides raw material lavishly. In practical life mechanical ingenuity converts raw material into a product having greater value than it possessed in its crude form. In converting crude matter into some form which gives it increased value, the operator is compelled to think, to observe, to deliberate, to reason and to conclude. In like manner the pupil of the manual training school, as soon as he begins to construct things, discovers that he must observe closely, must be attentive, must form an ideal, must think out the process of construction carefully, must consider which is the best process or the proper material to be used in attaining his ideal, must use his reason in determining what effects certain causes produce or in discovering the cause of the error he has made. Here is a large field in which the pupil engages voluntarily as a gleaner, always gathering a sheaf, the consciousness of inherent power to do.

The universe is composed of two parts, the world of matter and the world of mind. These are interdependent, are complements of each other. Mind deprived of matter would be utterly helpless, matter without mind would be entirely useless. Manual training brings the mind of the pupil into direct contact with its complement, matter. In the proper manipulation of matter it becomes a thing of worth or of beauty. The development of mind harmonizes with this development of matter. Mind is strengthened in the process and the pupil encouraged to attempt other and more difficult achievements. He gains a practical experience with things surrounding him. He wrestles with the forces of nature with which he becomes familiarized by overcoming or by calling to his assistance. In planning he overcomes the force of cohesion. In making a glued joint he calls upon the force of adhesion for assistance. In sawing he illustrates the divisibility of matter, and in driving a nail, impenetrability of matter. His tools are based upon mechanical or mathematical principles. His hammer is a lever, his chisel is a wedge. His square is a right angle and his level may be set to any angle. His dividers describe arcs and circles, divides a space into equal parts. He thus realizes the intimate relationship which exists between things and the ideas contained in his text books.

The tendency of this wrestling with nature's forces is to incite a desire to scrutinize more closely the pages of the great book of nature as it lies spread out all around him. His observation is cultivated and he begins to see things as they are. The study of the phenomena of surrounding nature should lead the earnest student to a consideration of self, that almost incomprehensible combination of the spiritual and the material.

The aim of manual training is high and ennobling. The conscientious manual training teacher most fully realizes that "He aims too low who aims below the stars."

Grave Mistakes.

Physicians frequently make mistakes in treatment of Heart Disease. The rate of sudden deaths is daily increasing. Hundreds become victims of the ignorance of physicians in the treatment of this disease. One in four has a diseased heart. Shortness of breath, palpitation and fluttering, irregular pulse, choking sensation, asthmatic breathing, pain or tenderness in side, shoulder or arm, weak and angry spells, are symptoms of Heart Disease. Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure is the only reliable remedy. Thousands testify to its wonderful cures. Books free. Sold by J. W. Gayle.

A SLOW COACH

Is the King Bridge Company.

The contract with the King Bridge Company calls for the completion of the St. Clair street bridge by the 15th of November, which is only three weeks off and they have not one pound of iron upon the ground, yet the company have been very prompt in demanding the payment of their estimates. Mayor Tobin has received a letter from the company on the subject, a copy of which has been forwarded to Squire McDonald, with a note, both of which we give below:

Pat McDonald, Frankfort, Ky.:

DEAR SIR—Your favor of the 21st received. We have already written Mayor Tobin fully. Enclosed find copy of letter we mailed him yesterday. All we can do is that if we can possibly get the bridge shipped quicker we shall do so. We are as anxious to get it there as you can be.

Yours truly,

THE KING BRIDGE CO.
JAS. A. KING, President.

CLEVELAND, OHIO,

October 25, 1893.

R. Tobin, Mayor, Frankfort, Ky.:

DEAR SIR—Your telegram of the 21st was received this morning. We are sorry our advices are not satisfactory, because we do not see that we can offer anything better. When we received your contract the mills were all shut down, and owing to the fearful depression in business they continued to be shut down and most of them are now. We had considerable difficulty in placing the material for your bridge. We finally placed it with a company who started up on purpose to make this order and another large orders that we had on our books, and possibly if they had not done so we should not have been able to procure the material at this time. The extraordinary depression in business has also made it very slow work for us to repair the damages by fire in our riveting department. We expected to be in our new shop by this time, but it is not completed, although we have pushed it as hard as we could. Of course this makes the work go a great deal slower. It is, however, one of those things that no one could foresee. We have done the best we could and it is impossible to do any more.

We have your work well under way in our other shops, where we have temporary riveting arrangements, and are pushing it fast as possible, but the time mentioned in our telegram is the very best we can do. We shall try to live up to it. According to our understanding, however, you are not really suffering on account of the bridge not being erected. Perhaps we misunderstand the matter, but this is what we have heard from our men. We trust this is so and that you will not be put to any great inconvenience. We are sorry matters should work thus, but we cannot see that we are to blame in any way. We have done everything we could under the circumstances and we hope this will be satisfactory.

Yours truly,

THE KING BRIDGE CO.,
JAS. A. KING, President.

The company knew at the time they took the contract that the mills were shut down and they should not have stipulated the 15th of November as the time for the completion of the bridge if they did not intend to comply with it, and it is rather late now to set up that plea.

We do not know who "our men" are that furnished them their information as to whether the people are suffering for the bridge or not, but we would like to inform the aforesaid gentlemen that if we are not now certain they will be suffering by the failure of the company to comply with their contract so soon as the people have to trudge up and down the muddy river bank to the ferry.

It is plain to be seen that cold weather will find the bridge unfinished, and if we get the completed structure as a Christmas gift we may consider ourselves fortunate. The city council will doubtless inform the company, when they demand the payment of their next estimate, that the iron must be on the ground and the work well under way before any more money is paid, as they should do.

The Teachers District Association of the second district, Forks of Elkhorn, Franklin county, will be held in this place Saturday, November 18, 1893, beginning promptly at 10 o'clock a. m., and continue through the day. The following schools compose the said district: Woodlake, No. 1; Switzer, No. 3; Jetts, No. 5; Forks of Elkhorn, No. 9; Stedmantown, No. 11; Walcutt, No. 37; Crutcher, No. 44. Rocky Branch, No. 45. The teachers employed in the above named districts will bear in mind the fact that the new school law makes it compulsory on their part to attend. We hope to see a goodly number of teachers present from other districts as well as all who may heartily favor the cause of education, whether teacher or not. Committee on Programme—J. C. Porter, Chairman; Misses Jennie Goddard and Maggie Downie.

C. H. PARRENT,
Vice Pres. for Second District.

Mr. Waller Lewis, who has been very sick for many weeks past, is convalescing slowly.

Quite a number of people have attended the World's Fair since our last letter. Those in attendance this week are as follows, viz: Mr. F. M. Featherston, wife and sister, Miss Jennie, Dr. W. T. Buckner and wife, Messrs. Howard Black and John Murphy, Mrs. Sallie Burdin and Rev. F. W. Eberhardt and bride.

Our town is improving rapidly under the mechanical skill of our carpenters and artistic genius of our painters.

THE SCHOOL BUILDING.

A Bad Job and in Miserable Repair.

Although the White Public School building has been built but a few years, it is in a wretched condition. The roof leaks, there is hardly a ceiling in the building that is not ready to fall off, and in many places has already done so, the floors, closets and waincoting have pulled away from the walls, and there is not enough draft in the flue into which the pipe from the furnace runs to enable the engineer to get up steam enough to heat the building, and the consequence is that the rooms on the third floor cannot be made comfortable for the teachers and pupils in cold weather. If the fire in the furnace is stirred up soot pours out of the chimney in great chunks and the room over the boiler is constantly filled with such a peculiar odor that the teacher has to keep the windows lowered for the top all the time. The steam gauge upon the boiler should show a pressure of at least 25 or 30 pounds in extreme weather in order to heat the entire building, but the engineer, with hard work, cannot raise more than twelve pounds. Winter is coming on and the roof should be repaired and the heating apparatus, by all means, gotten into good working order at once, even if the other repairs are not made, but the whole house is needing overhauling and thorough repairing badly, and the City Council or School Board should look after the matter.

Primaries Must Go.

A friend has sent us a copy of the South Florida Sentinel with the following article marked as expressive of his sentiments:

Primaries are schools of slander, malice and private hatred, and the candidates voted for, whether named or left, engender animosities which are never forgotten or condoned.

What else is gained by this pernicious system? Echo answers—pernicious system! It is a marine fable to assert that the country precincts have any better opportunity to secure candidates satisfactory to the yeomanry than by the old-fashioned delegate system.

In selecting delegates two or three of the largest precincts can, and often do, combine against the smaller ones and thus take not only the cake but the bakery also.

Primaries drive out good men who would offer themselves as candidates, but for the onerous cost it entails. In the first round, candidates cannot assail the opponent's politics, but are driven to the subterfuge of attacking private character. A second canvass becomes necessary to discuss political matters, making it too expensive for men who would fill the offices as well, if not better, than those who can afford the outlay.

Going to China.

Mr. George B. Hunt, who has been a clerk in the Farmers Bank in this city for several years, will leave on the 15th of next month for Hong Kong, China, where he has accepted the position of private secretary to his father, Capt. William C. Hunt, of Greenville, Mississippi, who has been appointed U. S. Consul at that port.

Mr. Waller Bullock, of Lexington, will succeed Mr. Hunt as clerk in the bank.

THE WORLD'S FAIR.

Estimated Sum of Money This County and State has Poured Into Chicago.

Ex-Governor Knott's Prophecy.

The proprietor of one hotel, the University, on Congress street in Chicago, says that he has entertained over 700 people from this city since the opening of the World's Fair. There is no doubt that more Frankfort people stopped at the University than at any other hotel in Chicago, but it is reasonable to suppose that twice as many visitors were quartered in other hotels and private houses. Estimating that 2,000 people from this city and county have attended the Fair, and which it is believed is not far from the actual number, and fixing an average of $40 for each person, the total amount of money that has been lost to this city and county alone will aggregate $80,000. It has been stated that no less than 200,000 Kentuckians have visited the Fair, and if this be true, the loss in dollars to the whole State at the same ratio has been $8,000,000. The benefits to the visitors in an educational point of view are unquestioned, but the following excerpts from ex-Gov. Knott's argument before the Court of Appeals on the constitutionality of the $100,000 appropriation are, nevertheless, food for reflection in these times of need and stringency:

"It would be a magnificent advertisement for somebody no doubt. It would probably boom the price of coal lands, but the court knows, as well as I do, that nearly the whole of our best coal and other mineral lands have already been monopolized by foreign millionaires who are alien to our soil and strangers to our institutions. It might increase the demand for our timber, but they too have, in a great measure, been already gobbled up by foreign speculators. It would no doubt redound to the interest of our various railroad corporations, but they are also owned and controlled almost entirely by foreign capital. The great thoroughfare of trade that runs in front of this capital is under the dominion of a syndicate of foreign Jews, the Rothschilds, the money kings of Europe. Every great industrial interest in the Commonwealth is in the hands of consolidated capital in some form or other, except agriculture, and it is proposed to tax that for the aggrandizement of the others. Why should the farmer who toils through the summer's heat and the winter cold, or the mechanic who wields the hammer or shoves the plane from 'early dawn to dewy eve,' be taxed to promote the prosperity of their more favored neighbors, the mine owner and manufacturer? What compensation will they receive for the portion of their scanty earnings taken from them by the tax-gatherer for that purpose?"

"It is argued, however, that this great exposition will be a great educator. But whom will it educate? Out of the two million people in Kentucky it is possible, it is probable, in fact, that a hundred thousand may be able to see 'the big show' at Chicago, which will be just as big, and just as instructive without this tax upon them of $100,000 as with it; it follows, therefore, that the remaining nineteen hundred thousand must be compelled to contribute to their tuition. Is it fair? Is it republican equality? Is it equal and exact justice? Is it consistent with a constitution of government ordained and established to protect the property of the high and the low, the rich and the poor alike?"

"As an evidence of the tremendous popular clamor under which this act was passed, I have but to remind the court that when it was understood that the Auditor would not pay the hundred thousand dollars, unless compelled to do so by the courts, and that the courts were pretty certain not to compel him, 'The Louisville Times' made the most earnest efforts for two weeks to raise the sum by private subscription, and at the end of that time abandoned the project in disgust, having raised only three thousand dollars, one thousand of which was subscribed by itself and its generous mother—'The Courier Journal.'

"It is idle to say that this appropriation is a trifle. The twenty shillings which John Hampden refused to pay was a trifle, but the exaction of that trifle stirred the tide of civil war which brought Charles II to the block and swept his family into exile. The tax on tea was a trifle, but it was an abuse of the taxing power which cost England the brightest jewels in her diadem. If this people must protect themselves they will do it, say they will do it effectually. As one much wiser than I has said, justice moves with a laden heel but it strikes with an iron hand."

The Fountain Head of Strength.

When we recollect that the stomach is the grand laboratory in which food is transformed into the secretions which furnish vigor to the system after entering and enriching the blood; that it is, in short, the fountain head of strength, it is essential to keep this important supplying machine in order, and to restore it to activity when it becomes inactive. This Hostetter's Stomach Bitters does most effectively, assuaging, regulating and reinforcing digestion, promoting due action to the liver and bile, strength and equanimity of the nerves depend in great measure upon thorough digestion. There is no nerve tonic more highly esteemed by the medical fraternity than the Bitters. It also strongly commands the attention of physicians in cases of indigestion, loss of appetite, kidney and bladder trouble, sick headache, and want of appetite and sleep. Take a wineglassful three times a day.

Would Make His Hair Curl.

If the workman or contractor who placed the guy ropes across the east walkway of the St. Clair street bridge so low down as to knock the hat off or scrape the top of the head of every one passing under them could hear the cuss-words which have been said about him since the ropes were placed there his hair would not only curl but turn grey. To a person inexperienced in such matters it appears that if the ropes were raised six or eight inches they would serve every purpose and their fastenings would be just as secure, and as the walk is likely to be used for a month yet we would suggest to the proper person the propriety of raising them just a little. As at present located they are liable to shake up a person's religion, especially if he is thinking of something else when starting into the bridge.

FRANKFORT ROUNDABOUT

FRANKFORT, OCTOBER 28, 1893.

A VETERAN LAYS DOWN HIS ARMS.

Death of Gen. Thos. L. Crittenden, Hero of Two Wars.

The intelligence was received here Monday of the death of General Thomas Leonidas Crittenden, which sad event occurred at his home on Staten Island, New York, that morning, from the effects of a second paralytic stroke.

The deceased was born at Russellville, Logan county, in 1819, and came to this city with his father, the late Hon. John J. Crittenden, when quite young. The greater portion of his education was received under the instruction of the late Prof. Kean O'Hara, and after leaving that school he studied law with his father and commenced the practice of his profession here. When the Mexican War broke out he volunteered and served with great distinction, rising to the rank of Lieutenant-Colonel. At the battle of Buena Vista he was serving as an aid upon the staff of General Zachary Taylor, and during a lull in the battle was sent with a flag of truce through the Mexican lines. When presented before General Santa Anna that officer demanded to know if General Taylor had surrendered and General Crittenden's answer: "General Taylor never surrenders," made him famous in history.

After General Taylor was elected President he appointed Gen. Crittenden Consul to Liverpool and when his term as such expired he returned to Louisville and entered into business.

In 1861 he was appointed Inspector General of the State to succeed Gen. S. B. Buckner, who had resigned to enter the Confederate Army; was shortly after commissioned as Brigadier General in the volunteer service of the United States and was promoted to the rank of Major General for gallant conduct upon the battle field at Shiloh. He served under both Generals Buell and Rosecrans and had command first of a division and then of a corps, participating in all the campaigns of the Army of the Tennessee up to and including Chicamauga. He resigned his commission December 13th, 1864.

At the close of the war he returned to this city to reside and was appointed by Gov. Bramlett to fill out the unexpired term of Col. James H. Garrard, deceased, as State Treasurer, and while serving as such was appointed a Colonel in the Regular Army and assigned to the command of the 32d U. S. Infantry, July 28, 1866, but was transferred May 19, 1869, to the 17th U. S. Infantry, which position he held until he retired, May 19th, 1881, at his own request. He was brevetted Brigadier General in the U. S. Army, March 2d, 1867, for gallant and meritorious conduct in the battle of Stone River, Tennessee. Upon retiring he took up his residence upon Governor's Island, New York, later moved to New York City, and about a year ago bought a home upon Staten Island, where he died.

He leaves a wife, formerly Miss Kittie Todd, sister of the late Capt. H. I. Todd—his only child, Lieutenant John Jordan Crittenden, was killed at the Custar massacre in 1877—a brother, Col. Robert H. Crittenden, of this city, and numerous relatives here and in other parts of the State to mourn his loss.

The remains arrived here Wednesday evening and the funeral took place Thursday morning at 11 o'clock from the First Presbyterian Church. A large number of friends and relatives attended and a salute was fired from Arsenal Hill during the funeral services.

The Modern Jack Horner.

"Little Jack Horner sat in a corner, Eating a Christmas pie; He put in his thumb and pulled out a plum, And said what a good boy am I!" But little Jack Horner became a deep mourner.

When older he grew and a glutton. For his liver, Pile state, was like a dead weight. As he drank wine and ate too much mutton.

Poor Jack's time of grief, however, was brief, And of sickness he ceased to be fearful. For a boon friend said "Well, let's try Pierce's Pellets."

And with good livers both are now cheerful.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets, absolutely effective in cases of sick headache, constipation, indigestion, and all derangements of the stomach and bowels. Satisfaction guaranteed.

The Fine Fruit of Washington.

FRANKFORT, KY.,

October 19, 1893.

Editor Roundabout:

The accompanying letter from our old friend, which you will please publish, recalls to mind some of the descriptions of fruit and fruit growing in the new state of Washington, which I attempted to give you while there, particularly that relating to a certain variety of blackberry, indigenous to that country and soil. A gentleman in Olympia showed me one of these vines from which he told me he had that year gathered 32 gallons of as fine fruit as ever grew. The common blackberry also grows to perfection there. Such stories seem incredible; nevertheless they are true. This particular variety of blackberry grows after the fashion of a honeysuckle or grape vine and is an evergreen. The one I saw couldn't have been less than 50 or 60 feet in length. The date of Mr. Nicol's letter you will observe is October 11th, and he says strawberries are in the market, grown there. Think of it! The latitude of the spot he designates is not less than 70 or 80 miles further north than Quebec in Canada. These are interesting facts and are worth knowing. A country that will produce strawberries from May to October and blackberries from June to January is surely a grand one. This is something which California even cannot do, while Washington can grow all and as fine as California can.

I have weighed single plums in Olympia, gathered in the yards there, weighed four ounces apiece. I have seen pears so large that when they fell from the tree they would burst wide open on striking the ground—sound pears at that. I am proud to know that I own a home on Puget Sound, and it will not be long, if I live, until I go there, improve my property and try hand at fruit growing.

I asked Jim Nicol while he was here not long ago, why he didn't tell something more of that country than he did, and his reply was that he was afraid the people wouldn't believe him—but perhaps the editor of the ROUNDABOUT is ready to believe almost anything since he saw the Washington exhibit at the World's Fair.

D. MEADE WOODSON.

SEATTLE, WASHINGTON, }
October 11th, 1893.
D. M. Woodson, Esq., Frankfort, Ky.:

DEAR SIR—I saw the party who owns the 40 acres near Seattle that I spoke to you about. He promised to write you in regard to it. I went out to see some fruit grown within two miles of the place I mentioned to you. To give you an idea of the quantity grown on trees which were quite small, I will tell you the number of pounds plucked from one tree of yellow plums. The owner had taken, when I was there, over 400 pounds, and I thought that the amount left on the tree was a big crop. I saw prune trees that were actually breaking down under their loads of fruit. As to apples I do not think I ever saw finer in color or shape. I saw one blackberry bush or vine that had 20 gallons taken off and has as many more. Strawberries are in the market, grown here, and sell at 1 1/2 cents a box. When I began to look into the fruit raising I was astonished to see the amount and quality that could be raised from such small trees. The place I spoke of than the place where I saw the trees in bearing. Hoping the above may be of some benefit to you.

I am yours truly,
JAS. W. NICOL.

"I consider Chamberlain's Cough Remedy a specific for croup. It is very pleasant to take, which is one of the most important requisites where a cough remedy is intended for use among children. I have known of cases of croup where I know the life of a little one was saved by the use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy." J. J. LaGrange, druggist, Avoca, Nebraska, 50 cent bottles for sale by J. W. ZEB.

The funniest of all domestic comedies is "Zeb," that is to be presented at the Opera House October 30th, and if all promises are verified it will be a fitting attraction for theatre-goers of Frankfort to turn out en masse. "Zeb" is a new comedy, and entirely original in every particular. The scenes are laid within a short distance of Muncie, Indiana, and every character in the piece has an original in the territory mentioned. The scenery, both interiors and exteriors, has been painted from models near Muncie. In fact, the good people near by will be given a boom. Mr. Young, the author of "Zeb," has written a very pretty story a little dramatic in places, but largely given over to comedy. He lived near Muncie for the purpose of becoming acquainted with their little peculiarities. He also made a study of the characters which he has drawn for the stage. Among other sensible things that "Zeb" does is to visit Chicago, where he becomes a shining mark for Clark street sharpers.

Incidental to the play there will be presented a number of excellent musical and dancing features and the celebrated "Zeb" Quartette. The mechanical and scenic effects introduced in "Zeb" are new and original—in one act alone is introduced 16 280 feet of scenery representing "Zeb" at the World's Fair riding on the movable sidewalk.

Matrimonial.

CLARK STRODE—Mr. Vernon L. Clark, of this city, and Miss A. Kate Strode, of Winchester, were married at the Baptist Church in that city on Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock, Rev. Richard French officiating. A special train was run from this city over the Kentucky Midland to Winchester for the occasion and carried up about forty invited guests. The bride and groom returned to this city with the party and have taken rooms with Miss Sallie Jackson, on Shelby street.

The groom is a member of the insurance firm of Hensley, Clark & Co., and one of the most popular young men in the city, while the bride is a handsome and accomplished young lady, who was quite a belle in her native city, and Mr. Clark is to be congratulated upon capturing so fair a prize.

Those who attended pronounce the wedding a beautiful and enjoyable affair.

AMMAN-PECK—Mr. Nick Amman, of this city, and Miss Johanna Peck, of Midway, were married Tuesday afternoon at the residence of Mr. Alex. Schneider, on Washington street. Rev. J. McClusky Blayne, D. D., officiating. After the ceremony the bridal party repaired to the home of the bride's parents in Woodford county, where an elegant reception was held and the young people danced until a late hour.

ROGERS-SANDERS—Mr. J. C. Rogers, of Wichita, Kansas, and Miss Kate Sanders, of this city, were quietly married Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, at the residence of the bride's father, Capt. Sam Sanders, on Ann street, Rev. J. McClusky Blayne, D. D., officiating. Only the immediately family and a few friends of the bride were present, and shortly after the ceremony the happy couple left over the Midland for their future home in Kansas.

The groom is a prosperous young business man of Wichita and the bride one of the most popular young ladies in the city. While standing before the officiating minister they were pronounced one of the handsomest couples who have united their lives in this city in a long time. The bride has been for several years organist at the First Presbyterian Church, and as last Sunday closed her services as such a special programme of music was rendered in her honor at the morning service. The bridal present of the congregation to her was a handsome clock. She also received numerous other beautiful and useful presents from her friends.

FOR SALE OR RENT—My house on West Main street, at present occupied by Col. Corbett's family. Possession given immediately. 52-54 Mrs. W. B. RODMAN.

The Machinery Moved In.

The machinery purchased by the State from the Mason & Foard Company has been paid for, moved back into the prison, is being rapidly set up, and it is expected that the chair factory will soon be in full operation, employing six hundred of the idle convicts. The business management of the factory has been turned over to Maj. H. S. Hale, State Treasurer, by the balance of the board of Sinking Fund Commissioners, and he will select experienced men to superintend and conduct the same. It is proposed to run the factory upon the same lines that the Mason & Foard Co did and there is no reason that the State should not make money out of it.

Leave Extended.

Capt. Sam. M. Swigert, 2d U. S. Cavalry, who, with his family, has been visiting relatives here for several weeks, has had his leave extended one month and will not have to return to his post of duty at Fort Lavenworth, Kansas, until the 28th of next month. He has been enjoying himself greatly here, fishing and visiting old friends, was loth to leave so soon and asked for an extension of his time, which was granted.

A Lucky Guess.

Miss Ruby Macklin, of this city, won the fifth prize in the Cincinnati Commercial Gazette's guessing contest. The point was to guess the exact attendance at the World's Fair last week, and she came within 47 of the correct number, for which she received an approximate prize of a round trip ticket from Cincinnati to Chicago over the Big Four road and ten dollars with which to pay expenses while there.

Wedded 50 Years.

Mr. Bendict Farmer and wife, of Farmdale, this county, were married fifty years ago on Thursday of last week, the 19th inst. They did not celebrate their golden anniversary but came to this city and had their photographs taken for their children, but this did not prevent their friends from extending congratulations as soon as it was known they had passed the fiftieth milestone of their married life.

Revenue Appointments.

It is pretty well settled that the following gentlemen will receive appointments as revenue officers under Collector Shelby, from this county.

Store-keepers—Thomas Rodman, jr., R. H. Whittington, Will French, Robert Frazier, Jake Cox, George B. Thomson, Robt. Phillips, C. B. Haydon and Chas. Stephens.
Gauger—Howard Gaines.

The Street Railroad.

The loop in the track of the street railroad, from the corner of Second and Shelby, out Second to Murray, south on Murray to Todd and in Todd to Shelby, has been completed and most of the poles for the wires have been put up on that side of the river. The track is now being laid from the north end of the road, on the Lewis Ferry pike, into the premises of the George T. Stagg Distilling Company and the work on the power house is going steadily along, and it is expected that everything will be ready to start the cars as soon as the St. Clair street bridge is completed. When that will be the Almighty and King Bridge Company only know.

Miss Schroeder Hurt.

The following from the Courier-Journal of Tuesday will be of interest to the many friends Miss Adelaide Schroeder made in this city during the time she was a teacher in our Public School. They will also be glad to learn that she escaped serious injury:

A carriage containing Mrs. Jno. C. Rufer and her sister, Miss Addie Schroeder, and Miss Almira Johnson was run into yesterday morning near the corner of Fourth and Chestnut streets by an electric car. Miss Johnson and Miss Schroeder were thrown out of the carriage and slightly injured. The rear part of the carriage was struck by motor car 274. The shock threw Miss Johnson and Miss Schroeder out. Miss Johnson was the worst hurt, receiving a cut on her head.

She Committed Suicide.

Mrs. F. C. Cone, at Paris, left this letter: "My husband—Forgive me if I cause you trouble, but I suffer so. You do not know what these long wakeful, wretched nights are to me, and I am so tired, darling—the pain will never be better. It is not easy to take my own life, but I have been sick so long. Goodbye, my husband. I love you—your wife." This is one of the thousands that gives up, instead of using Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine, and being speedily cured of their wretchedness. Get to J. W. Gayle and get an elegant book and trial bottle free.

Success of the Country 'Squire.

Newbury, Sept. 9.—At the Academy to-night "The Country 'Squire," by J. A. Krone, with Archie Boyd in the title role, closed its first performance for the benefit of the Elks. The house was filled to its utmost capacity, and if laughter and applause are a criterion, Mr. Boyd and his play have scored a hit. The plot, though somewhat complicated, but full of humorous and pathetic situations, develops by degrees into a clear and comprehensive whole. It makes no pretensions either in language or plot to rank with the higher class of domestic literature. It merely claims to be an American domestic drama, dealing with better elements of family life, a natural and moral manner, and of such we are glad to say its claim is indisputable.

The general tone of it seems to resemble a picture alone in crayon, where boldly out-lined characters represent a clever composition whose principal object is to give a true copy of the original. The scenes are rich throughout in varied incidents and closely connected with the plot, with the exception of the second act, which describes the adventures and mishaps of the 'Squire while at Washington to recover a war claim. This act, or interlude rather, though loosely connected with the plot, is not essential to the main action, but, as it is replete with the comic coincidences, it is no serious fault in the work, and as it is the source of so much amusement.

Mr. Archie Boyd, who for the past four years has been identified with "Joshua Whitcomb," gave an uncommonly fine rendition of the 'Squire, and made an impression in the burly Misadventurer that will be long remembered. From his first entrance with the refractory calf to the scene with the orphan waifs at the spring was a series of humorous and pathetic home pictures, and in the closing of the sunset scene, beginning with the monologue, "Across the river on the golden shore, I'll meet them there," the subdued and most tragic tones of his voice seemed to blend with the wail of the home returning harvesters. We must compliment Mr. L. W. Seavey, an artist of New York, for the excellent manner in which he has realized the spirit of this scene by his beautiful painting of an upland prairie farm. In the interlude Mr. Boyd proved as comical as he had been pathetic in the previous act, and elicited shouts of laughter in the scene with Jackson, the detective, whom he takes for a rogue, the dades with the kodak, the sprinkling cart, &c. In the third act, in the ball-room scene, he quarrels with his brother, a New York merchant, whom he has not seen for twenty years or more. Here Mr. Boyd shows his power in portraying strong emotion and thunders of applause accompanied him as he retired from the scene to return to his far away home in Missouri. The last act is occupied in solving the problems and conflicts of the story, and here the versatility of Mr. Boyd came into full play in the different scenes of the lovers whose troubles he is to right, the compulsory reformation of the millionaire and the meeting of his brother, who has arrived from New York. This last feature is done in a novel and attractive style. The large farm bill is tolled, singers strike up "Home Again," and a reunion of the Tobias family takes place.

A letter arrives solving the mystery of his son's existence and the parents age of the orphans he has adopted. His cup of bliss is full, and the song of "Auld Lang Syne" by the company ends this most interesting play. Mr. Boyd has gained another victory. With his talents, reputation and happy knack of utilizing whatever is natural and fit for the delineation of his home-spun characters, with an excellent company of players who do full justice to the parts, a band of singers so efficient that they become an essential part of the play, and the beautiful scenery painted by Mr. Seavey, among which are notable the farm and the Patent Office in Washington City, and all this under the direction of Mr. Chapman, a well-known and successful manager, it is no wonder why Mr. Boyd and his interesting play should not succeed. At least we hope it will, both for the sake of the actor and the play, and we trust are long we shall have a repetition of "The Country Squire."

The Country Squire will open his court at the Opera House in the near future.

The New South and the World's Fair.

No section of the country, East, North or West, is taking a greater interest in the World's Fair at present than that portion lying south of Mason and Dixon's line, and typical Southerners, easily distinguishable in the immense throng by the graceful military bearing of the gentlemen and the rare beauty of the ladies, are to be met in great numbers on the Exposition grounds, in the corridors of the leading hotels and at the various social gatherings in the World's Fair City.

To a large extent the success of the Fair depends upon the Southern people, the Board of Managers expect hundreds of thousands of people from South of the Ohio river to attend the Exposition, and from present indications they will not be disappointed. The railroads are making extensive preparations to take care of the people, and their comfort enroute is fully assured.

The Big Four Route, which is the only line making connection in Central Union Station, Cincinnati, with through trains of the E. T. V. & G. Queen & Crescent Route, Louisville & Nashville R. R., Kentucky Central Ry., and Chesapeake & Ohio Ry., naturally forms the popular outlet for Southern travel, and to accommodate the business five elegant vestibuled trains, with parlor cars, sleeping cars, dining cars and elegant coaches are run daily from Cincinnati to Chicago, stopping at Midway Plaisance, the Main Entrance to the World's Fair, 22d St., Hyde Park, 1st St., 39th St., and running into the new 12th St. Station on the Lake Front. All the World's Fair hotels and boarding houses are located adjacent to the Big Four stations and passengers via the popular line avoid the long, tiresome transfer across the city necessary by all other lines from Cincinnati. There is positively no other line landing passengers at the stations named, and as it affords in addition to the comfort and convenience a great saving of time and expense, all the South who contemplate a trip to the World's Fair should be sure to ask for tickets via the Big Four Route.
